

Versuch, die Geschichte in die richtige Reihenfolge zu bringen, indem du die Satzteile nummerierst.

..... They were deep in conversation.
..... but they did not notice it.
..... He tried to comfort the professor.
..... for the third and last time,
..... “Take your seats, please,”
..... the professors heard it
..... and rushed for the train.
..... He looked sad.

....1... There were three professors at the railway station.
..... It was Professor Egghead.
..... The third one was left behind.
..... When the loudspeaker said
..... My friends only came to say goodbye.”
..... That’s quite good, you know.”
..... The train had just arrived,
..... “Two out of three caught the train.
..... Two of them got on the train before it moved.
..... One of the professor’s students was at the station.
..... “It wasn’t really bad, sir,” said the student.
..... “But it was my train.
..... “I know,” the professor said.

absent-minded = zerstreut

to notice = sehen, bemerken

to rush for = sich stürzen auf

to comfort = trösten

two out of three: zwei von drei